

the family names should form nested name scopes; it is the recommended practice, and has implications about how components that implement protocols are located new arrow: «implements» components implement protocols protocols describe formal requirements that components must satisfy