

the family name of a component is part of its public interface it is the user visible name for the component class, and the name users will use to configure the default values for all instances of the component